

POL 363E US-EUROPEAN RELATIONS SINCE WORLD WAR II

Course objective/methodology

By the end of this course the students should have developed a more coherent theoretical framework to better understand, and engage in critical debates about, the dynamic political, economic, military and socio-cultural nature of transatlantic relations. To that end, and the given complexity of the subject matter, the course adopts multidisciplinary approach: historical, geographical and cultural aspects considered necessary accompaniments to the main political/economic/military framework adopted.

Course description

The course is divided into six broad sections. The first part establishes the historical framework, analysing the significance firstly of the WWII and the advent of the Cold War, in dramatically shaping the priorities of, and shifting relationship between, both actors. It is in this context, and under Pax Americana, that European integration took place. Indeed, section 2 is specifically dedicated to shedding some light on the evolution, functioning and key policies of the EU. Section 3 then addresses US foreign policy in the post-Cold War era under the Bush I, Clinton and Bush II administrations, respectively, and how it affected Europe and especially the relationship with Spain. ('Foreign policy' here understood in the broad sense, including 'economic statecraft'). Section 4 addresses the very complex issue of transatlantic security, paying special attention to the role of NATO in Europe, the nature of the EU's common security policy, transatlantic intelligence cooperation and assessing the importance of social and cultural values on foreign policy formulation. Section 5 then looks at the areas of convergence and divergence between the American and European policies with regards some key areas of the world, notably the Middle East and China. The final part of the course is dedicated to analysing the good, the bad and 'ugly' of transatlantic economic relations and reviewing likely future scenarios.

Course Requirements and Grading

Assessment for the course consists of one short quiz and two exams (all written) and an oral presentation (in pairs/small groups) on an assigned relevant topic. With regards the oral presentation, on the day of their presentations each students have to hand the following document for their section: an outline, a bibliography and a half page summary (TMR 12, single space). Students will be graded individually

Finally, students will be required to complete assigned readings/summarize articles etc outside class and to actively participate in class discussions, which will be reflected in their 'participation' grade. (N.B.: 'being there' does not = 'participation').

The distribution of the final grade is the following:

Quiz	15%	Midterm Exam	25%
Presentation	15%	Final Exam (TBA)	25%
Participation	20%

The dates for the quiz, exams and presentation will not be changed under any circumstances.

Spanish grades run: 10-9.0 (A), 8.9-7.0 (B), 6.9-5.0 (C), 4.9-0 (F)

Attendance, Punctuality and General Course Policies

Attendance is mandatory. If there is justifiable excuse for missing class, some form of documentation (e.g. doctor's note) must be provided to the proper authorities. Any student missing class must catch up on the lost notes from fellow students.

More than 3 unexcused absences will result in the lowering of the grade. Students with more than 2 such absences may not challenge the final grade received.

Punctuality is required. If a student arrives more 15 minutes late it will constitute a 0.5 absence. However no student will be permitted entrance more than 25 minutes after the beginning of the class and hence will be marked absent.

Please keep your cell phones turned off during class.

Strictly no food to be consumed in class.

Academic Dishonesty

Academic integrity is a guiding principle for all academic activity at Pablo de Olavide University. Cheating on exams and plagiarism (which includes copying from the internet) are clear violations of academic honesty. A student is guilty of plagiarism when he or she presents another person's intellectual property as his or her own. The penalty for plagiarism and cheating is a failing grade for the assignment/exam and a failing grade for the course. Avoid plagiarism by citing sources properly (using footnotes or endnotes and a bibliography).

Students with Disabilities

If you have a disability that requires special academic accommodation, please speak to your professor within the first three (3) weeks of the semester in order to discuss any adjustments. It is the student's responsibility to provide the International Center with documentation confirming the disability and the accommodations required (if you have provided this to your study abroad organization, they have most likely informed the International Center already but please confirm).

Behavior Policy

Students are expected to show integrity and act in a professional and respectful manner at all times. A student's attitude in class may influence his/her participation grade. The professor has a right to ask a student to leave the classroom if the student is unruly or appears intoxicated. If a student is asked to leave the classroom, that day will count as an absence regardless of how long the student has been in class.
